HOME DECOR FROM ALL OVER THE WORLD BROUGHT TO YOU BY TARA HOME DECOR

Have you ever travelled abroad and wished your suitcase could hold all the beautiful pieces you'd like to bring back with you? I know I have. Yes, shipping is an option, but I'm afraid this can sometimes be a big headache, especially when transporting individual items into Thailand. Therefore I was delighted to discover the treasure trove that is Tara Home Decor Store.

I met the store's owners who told me they had come to Pattaya as interior designers, working with individual customers and large project developers. Frustrated by the lack of choice and quality craftsmanship available, they noticed a gap in the market for original, authentic pieces. So they decided to make their dream a reality and open their own shop.

Starting with Thai handicrafts, they quickly expanded their reach to include countries as far away as India, Morocco, Turkey and Africa. With the trained eyes of interior designers, they sourced an eclectic mix of items with ethnic patterns, rich colours, textures and natural elements.

Today they have outgrown their original small shop and are now in a much larger store right at the front of Baan and Beyond on Pattaya's Sukhumvit road. There are regular deliveries, so you need to keep looking inside to be tempted by the latest offerings.

Perhaps you just need some textiles and cushions? An individual chair to inject some colour into your condo unit? Or you wish to elevate your home with more original lighting and beautifully hand crafted furniture? Whatever your interior design needs, you will be inspired by the beautiful collections at Tara Home Decor.

Discover them for yourselves at the front of Baan & Beyond / By Big C

This Month in Discover Pattaya

Hi Everyone,

As some of you may recall I went to Morocco earlier in the year and wrote about what I found there in our June and July issues. If you missed these they are still available to read in our Back Issues page of the website pattayatrader.com. Well, long story short I fell in love with Marrakech and the wonderful handcrafted items on sale in the souks there. It was impossible to bring back everything I wanted - and having things shipped here is a bit of a challenge. Therefore I was delighted to Discover Tara Home Decor with a fabulous range not only of products from Morocco but also from Bali, India and Africa.

Please have a look for yourselves at Baan and Beyond. After all, Christmas is nearly upon us and while you're there you can pop into Edenko to see an amazing range of Christmas trees and decorations. There's more of what's inside at Edenko in our video on the Pattaya Trader YouTube channel - please like and subscribe to be notified of all the new videos we film in and around Pattaya.

After all, there is plenty here to Discover!

Discovering that Dom is not just a Pizzeria!

Dom Pizza Phratamnak is well known to many for its excellent pizzas and has been awarded Tripadvisor's Travelers' Choice award for the past 4 years. So we were delighted to attend their recent wine dinner and discover that they now have so very much more to offer. By Gloria Walking through the ever-popular alfresco area with a busy chef expertly preparing his pizzas, we entered Dom Gourmet Delicatessen. Inside we were greeted by the most amazing selection of wines, charcuterie and cheeses. Both imported and locally made produce is available here with choices to suit every budget. There is even a fantastic selection of imported purees, spices, dry pasta and condiments everything you need if you want to try to recreate some of the amazing dishes from Dom in your own kitchen. However, we were not here to do that. We were here to sample some fine dining.

In conjunction with Vines to Vino, Dom had put forward an excellent evening's meal to be enjoyed in comfortable air-conditioned surroundings. On arrival, the diners were treated to four cheese pizza and bruschetta tasters accompanying Vines to Vino's popular Cuvee Sparkling Chardonnay. Then a delicious starter of steamed prawns on a bed of smashed avocado. The avocados were perfect in consistency neither too hard nor too mushy, paired nicely with M.Chapoutier Belleruche Côtes du Rhône, a fresh, flowery white.

Then we were onto the 3 reds portion of the evening with the first a subtle fruity Pinot Noir "Volcanes de Chile Reserva" enjoyed with an extremely generous antipasto platter. This was soon followed by a Chianti from Toscana "Astrale Reserva" and a deliciously tender lamb shank that had been dipped in herbs and spices and then roasted in olive oil. Most pleasing to see sweet potatoes used in this dish along with a rich red-wine sauce.

Having suitably flexed our taste buds we were then onto the star of the wine show: Astrale Rosso Primitivo Montepulciano. A full-bodied elegant red with a pleasant lingering flavour it worked extremely well as an accompaniment to Dom's 4 cheese selection - a great advertisement for the Gourmet Deli.

When we thought we couldn't manage another thing there was a Tiramisu just too good to resist. Wonderfully soaked and powdered with a vanilla ice-cream accompaniment it was a very satisfying end to a lovely dinner with a fine "Quinta Do Portal Fine Ruby Porto".

If the object of the exercise was to tempt us into coming back to sample more of Dom's fine dining then it most certainly worked. We shall definitely be returning - and not just for pizza!

THE QUEEN OF ICE CREAM

One year since they opened on Jomtien Beach this gelateria is now so popular the owners are planning to open a second branch. Open 7 days a week from 8:30 a.m. until 11:00 pm in fact the evenings are proving to be a very popular time.

With a dazzling array of ice cream flavours there are even bubble gum options for the children as well as firm favourites such as Rum and Raisin, Vanilla and Pistachio for the adults. I asked what makes these ice creams taste so good and as well as the fact that they are all home made from fresh ingredients the Ice Queen prides itself on some extra finishing touches. For example they use Belgium and Swiss chocolate for their chocolate ice cream and raisins are soaked in rum for 48 hours before being added to the ice cream.

You can even watch the industrious staff through the glass wall into the kitchen where not only ice cream but amazing patisseries are also made in house. Excellent coffee and healthy breakfasts are also a speciality so go visit them with the kids (young and old!).

ASIAN OPTICAL

When did you last have your eyes tested?

Like regular trips to the dentist having your eye tested is something we often forget to do and yet we should get them checked at least once a year.

There are many opticians in Pattaya and quite often on our Facebook sites Pattaya Trader - Discover Pattaya and Pattaya Trader Expat Ladies Group we are asked to give recommendations. Asian Optical on Pratumnak Soi 4 is the only one we recommend. This is because unlike some other opticians that are little more than shops selling glasses in Pattaya Asian Optical can give you a proper eye test and they also have a fantastic selection of frames, lenses and contact lenses.

Aesthetic & Wellness Beauty Clinic

A GREAT PLACE TO GO FOR NAD DRIP TREATMENT

Over the past couple of months, we have told you about Dr Nicha and her beautiful clinic just behind Big C Extra, across the road from Apus Condominium. These articles are still available to read on our website pattayatrader.com. In them, the Dr tells us about her holistic approach to wellness and cosmetic treatments. This month she tells us about a really popular and growing trend at the clinic as male and female patients come to her for advice on anti-ageing.

With free consultation and just a quick test, the Dr can give her recommendations. Perhaps only an increase in vitamins, core minerals and a general improvement in lifestyle might be what is needed. Or a hormone imbalance may be another problem that is easy to address. However, for real state-of-the-art fitness, the NAD drip treatment can be a way to really put back the clock.

☎ 084-292-4795 📱 @nichaclinicpattaya

If you want to combat ageing at a cellular level NAD therapy is the latest breakthrough. NAD (Nicotinamide adenine dinucleotide) is one of the most important molecules in the body. It promotes cell regeneration and DNA repair. If you think of hormones as being the foot soldiers in the fight to aid cell repair then NAD, critical coenzymes found in every cell in your body, are the generals!

Regretfully we lose precious NAD as we grow old. Levels drop to about 50% in middle age and as low as 10% by the time we are in our 80s. The decline in NAD causes lowering energy levels, weight gain, heart conditions, and other age-related issues such as memory loss. However, with NAD drip treatments, you can soon see amazing results and real help with the reversal of these problems.

SPORTS UPDATE NOVEMBER

By Steve Wade.

The first Football World Cup to be staged in the winter starts in Qatar this month and runs through until the 18th of December. Whatever your thoughts on how and why this happened, it will be fascinating to see what effect the conditions have and what repercussions sending the best players in the world off for an intensive competition in mid season will have on the club sides in Europe.

Controversy has surrounded this event ever since the announcement that it would be given to Qatar some years ago, and that controversy has intensified after shocking reports of worker abuse in the rush to get the stadiums built in time and the ongoing revelations of corruption surrounding the original decision to play the tournament here in the first place.

The decision to hold the 2018 World Cup in Russia and this year's event in Qatar was taken all the way back in late 2010. Through some technicality that remains unclear, all non European bids were excluded from the final vote on the venue for 2018 which meant that only bids from outside of Europe were considered for the 2022 showcase. Still, the opposition to Qatar included Japan, the USA, Australia and South Korea, so it seemed unlikely that the bid from the Middle East would be successful.

Subsequent investigations have led to half of the 22 man committee who voted on both the 2018 and 2022 decisions being suspended, disqualified, banned for life or actually prosecuted for corruption, so I think we can take a wild guess at how this current state of affairs came about.

Whatever happened, we are where we are and the biggest sporting event in the world is being held in the Kingdom of Qatar. It would be impossible to play here in the summer months as the temperature hits an average of over 40c during the day but the figure goes to a much more manageable 29c or so in winter, still no picnic but the average low of 20c will help to cool things down.

I have no doubt that the players and everyone connected with the running of the competition will be very well catered for but the travelling fans are quite another matter.

There are reports that the Lusail Stadium, the venue for the final in December, had a multitude of problems for it's first major event recently, including a chronic shortage of vendors selling refreshments, and this after people having had water bottles taken from them at the gate due to stadium rules. 45 minute walks to the venue in 35c heat were also reported because of the lack of shuttle services. People have also voiced concern about the lack of accommodation and the safety of some members of the community. We can only hope that these problems are ironed out and the tournament turns out to be the showpiece that it should be.

THAILAND'S NEW GENERATION OF SNOOKER CHAMPIONS

by Steve Wade

Although the men's game in Thailand is suffering from a lack of new stars coming through at the moment, the Kingdom doesn't have one male player in the World top 64, the young women are making a fantastic impression and have had some excellent results lately. In August of this year the Women's World Under-21 championships were won by 14 year old Panchaya Channoi, nickname "Mind", defeating a young lady from India, Anupama Ramachandran, who had beaten her in the round robin stage of the tournament.

The Indian star had also beaten another promising Thai, Ploychompoo Laokiatphong in the semi-final and was an extremely tough opponent. This was a tremendous achievement for someone so young and as a result she was invited to play in the IBSF World 6-Red Championships in Kuala Lumpur. A nice touch on her return to Thailand was that she was met at the airport by the president of the Billiard Sports Association of Thailand, Suntorn Jarumon, who pledged to support not only "Mind" but all the other youngsters coming through.

Panchaya Channoi

Another exciting win that really turned the spotlight on the Thailand women's game was the World mixed doubles, held recently in the UK, where Nutcharut "Mink" Wongharuthai was playing alongside Australian World men's number 3 Neil Robertson. Because of the participation of the top 4 in the world men's game, Robertson, Ronnie O'Sullivan, Judd Trump and Mark Selby, this event drew a great deal of publicity and the 74 break of "Mink" in the semi-final to get them through was a particular highlight.

Nutcharut Wongharuthai and Neil Robertson

The young Thai champion was already causing a stir in the women's game, having become the first Thai winner of the Women's World Championship in February of 2022. She had already been runner-up in 2019 and had won her first ranking tournament, the Women's Australian Open, later that same year.

The world mixed doubles format has proven very popular and there can be no better way to give the ladies game exposure than to play alongside the best players in the world, male or female. Hopefully the event will become a permanent fixture on the yearly schedule and give the top women players the screen time the game needs. With their performances in Snooker and Golf to name just two, Thai sportswomen are making a big impression on the world stage.

THAILAND CHARTER WEEK

RETURNS TO PHUKET

The Thai Yachting Business Association has outlined the format of the second Thailand Charter Week, which will be held at Phuket Yacht Haven in November.

The second edition of the Thailand Charter Week will be held in Phuket from November 16-19, kicking off the country's high season for yachting and tourism. The Thai Yachting Business Association (TYBA), the show's organiser, expects the event to be bigger than the inaugural edition in November 2019, which featured 21 yachts. As of late August, 25 yachts were tentatively confirmed, with over half measuring 20m or more.

Superyachts include the 49m Azul V (CRN), a Sanlorenzo 118, the 34m Xanadu of London (Moonen), 32m Demarest (Falcon), 31m For Your Eyes Only (Astondoa), 30m Mia Kai (Bilgin) and 28m Thai-built Maha Bhetra.

The host venue will once again be Phuket Yacht Haven Marina, which is on the island's northeast coast and has berths for up to 320 vessels, a swimming pool, gym and restaurants.

Asia's premier charter industry event, the Thailand Charter Week provides a 'B2B' platform for luxury charter yacht brokers and agents to inspect charter yachts, experience Phuket's famed hospitality, and network with yachting and tourism industry professionals.

Participants will be able to enjoy a programme of destination presentations, activities, sustainable yachting information, and local entertainment including social events on three of the evenings. On Wednesday, November 16, the event will start with an opening party at Yacht Haven from 5pm, with drinks, canapes and local entertainment.

On Saturday, November 19 (10am-5pm), yachts will take a tour of nearby Phang Nga Bay. Yacht Style and parent company Lux Inc Media are media partners of the Thailand Charter Week for a second time. For more information on the second Thailand Charter Week, contact info@thailandcharterweek.com

No Racing, No Life.

By Mike Speakman

I first moved to Pattaya, Thailand in 1992, from Blackpool in the UK. My interest has always been in cars. In 2002, my ex-wife purchased a Daihatsu Mira, and I was very impressed with these small, economical cars. I then purchased my first Mira Turbo in 2003, and I fell in love with it.

In 2011, I began going to watch the Mira cars race at the Bira International Circuit race track, and I met a fantastic community of other Mira lovers. After a few years of watching and filming the races as a hobby for Facebook, I decided to enter a race in 2015.

My first race car was my white Mira turbo. I spent many months modifying it in preparation for the track. My first race was in 2015 at the Bira Circuit, in the Toyo Tires C7 race, racing alongside other Mira cars. In my first race, I seemed to do very well, and I could not wait to get back on the track and compete again. I competed in every C7 Toyo Tires race since then.

I first stepped foot onto the podium back in December 2015, at the Chang International Circuit in Buriram. I was overwhelmed that after all my hard work and dedication, I finally made it onto the podium, which was a great feeling, and I could not wait to achieve more.

After almost 8 years of racing, I have now received over 140 prize presentations, cups and awards.

My proudest moment was in March 2018, when I started competing against the bigger 1500cc series cars and managed to win 1st place on the podium in the Toyo Tires race. Since then, I have progressed to racing at Bira, Buriram, and Kaeng Krachan circuits.

I have built a total of 4 competing race cars, including the rebuilding of the engines on 3 Mira's with 660cc JB, EF, and K3 1300cc engines, fully race prepared, and one Daihatsu Copen, costing a total of a few million baht. All my cars have been professionally modified by two fantastic professionals, Kittikun Polsamak and Yub Ridmad, in Bangkok.

My scariest moment on the track was in March 2022, when my Mira pickup car completely flipped over when I hit a patch of oil on the track as I was leading in 2nd place. It happened as I was trying to overtake the group leader, when, unfortunately, my car completely slipped, flipped, and rolled across the track, landing on its roof, and rendering me upside down as I watched all the other racers pass me by. I have since rebuilt my Mira pickup, which will soon be competing on the track once again.

As for my future plans, I have been building my very first drag racing car for the past 2 years, which is almost complete. It will be my 5th completed race build, and I am soon to enter the drag racing scene at Bangkok Drag Avenue.

I have also inspired and trained my daughter, Megan Speakman, to compete with not just 660cc, but also 1500cc series cars, alongside myself and other racers with many years of experience. I am very proud to say she has achieved first place and has stepped foot onto the winners' podium after only 3 races. We now race as a family.

At the age of 67, this is a great life achievement for me, and I have no plans to stop racing anytime soon. Car racing is not only my hobby, it is my life.

THAILAND MotoGP 2022

Thailand recently hosted the Moto GP world championship at the Chang International Circuit in Buriram, the first FIA grade 1 and FIM grade A circuit in the Kingdom, which was opened in 2014. Much like a F1 Grand Prix, the action is staged over three days with day one for practice, day two for qualifying and the actual race taking place on a Sunday, day three. The main event was won by Miguel Oliveira from Portugal, riding for the KTM team

Unlike the format in Formula 1, the bikes have three grades of racing over the three days, Moto3, Moto2 and the main event itself, the MotoGP. However, again like the Formula 1 format, the competition travels the entire world over the season, starting in places such as Indonesia and Argentina, before spending the summer months competing throughout Europe and then moving on to Japan, Thailand, Australia and Malaysia.

Thailand, although mad keen on motor sports of any kind, hasn't had much of an impact in the sport so far, with only a couple of drivers showing some promise in the Moto2 class recently. Somkiat Chantra, in particular has fought his way into the top ten of the world rankings in this class and the home crowd were absolutely delighted when he was the fastest qualifier at his home event, becoming the first Thai in the history of motor sport to secure a number one spot on the grid for the actual race.

DISCOVER MOTORING  DISCOVER MOTORING  DISCOVER MOTORING

Unfortunately, the race was shortened due to the heavy rain on the circuit and the vast majority of bikes were either left way behind or did not finish at all, including Somkiat from his original pole position. Still, the number one spot on the grid was a massive achievement for the young Thai and he may be able to go on from here and make his mark in the remaining races this year.

The sport at the moment is dominated by both teams and drivers from Europe. However, the team from Japan, IDEMITSU Honda Team Asia, who the young Thai star drives for amongst a few more up and coming stars from Aisa, look a serious threat for the future.

Hopefully the schedule for these events will continue to include Thailand, because the event itself is very well staged and is immensely popular here, as it is throughout the world. As a spectator sport it really is very entertaining and the skill and bravery of these young riders when you watch it in the flesh has to be seen to be believed.

These three days of noise, colour, excitement and extreme speed on two wheels is a must visit for any fan of Motor Sport here in the Kingdom. Go along and see it!

THE ROTARY CLUB OF PATTAYA INTERNATIONAL EMPOWERING WOMEN

Last month we told you about Rotary Club Pattaya International's passion for working on the ongoing problem of Soi Dogs. The month before we wrote about their Beach Cleaning days. If you missed these please go to pattayatrader.com where you can still find these pages available to read online in our Back Issues.

This month is about another project very close to the hearts of both Jana and Tom Keightley and the members of the Rotary Club of Pattaya International - namely the Empowerment of Women. Together with other clubs and charities the Rotary members are keen to help provide basic education for young girls and mothers. One of the aims being to educate and provide the necessary qualifications to help get work (for example in the Hotel/ Service industry) or start their own businesses. This is especially important for girls/women who want to get away from the sex industry/ sex trafficking.

Educating young women with basic life skills such as nutrition, hygiene, and learning about their bodies especially during menstruation. A campaign to support and follow these informative lessons will then be launched encouraging people to donate toiletries, sanitary products and basic hygiene essentials that can be given to girls in the orphanages and homes.

Providing daycare for the children of working mothers is another important aim as well as teaching young girls to learn and have the confidence to say NO means NO. The Rotary clubs of Pattaya are already in touch with many charities doing tremendous work to help girls who have been the victims of abuse even whilst at home.

There much to do if you would like to find out more about how you can help please contact,;

deehiy.com pronounced “d-hi” means “home” or “at home” in the language of its Swiss founder Mendes Cavin; a carefully chosen name for a tech driven global online real estate marketplace simplifying the process of buying and selling property from the comfort of a couch.

Mendes explained, “deehiy.com was born of the idea that the whole world has evolved into the tech era of the 21st century with companies like Airbnb, Uber and Amazon, simplifying everyday tasks, yet real estate, one of the oldest industries of mankind, is in principle still the same as it has been for the last 2000 years.”

The company originally founded in Thailand in March 2022 by a hotelier, a restaurateur and a software engineer, has moved quickly from its original idea of providing a user friendly property platform to an international property marketplace for sellers, buyers and agents. “The concept of online marketplaces for properties is by all means nothing new”, Mendes explained, “but what we believe sets us apart from the ocean of property platforms is simplicity, design and global reach”.

In June 2022 deehiy.com first launched its trial platform with very few features based on WordPress. Throughout the following two months, the platform reached 100 listings in 7 provinces of Thailand. With more features and tools for users, the platform then grew an additional 80% in a matter of days. Thereafter they opened new markets such as Luxembourg and Switzerland with first listings.

The company’s objective, so the three founders say, is to simplify the process of selling and buying based on Steve Jobs’ Three-Click Rule. Although heavily tech driven, their major focus lies on user friendliness, offering the tools needed for a swift acquisition or sale for free at zero commission. The company is currently working on a fully integrated CRM (client relationship management) tool, advertising boosts and a new algorithm to refine its own search engine.

But that is by far not all. The diversity in their background is as diverse as the company itself. In addition to their online marketplace, deehiy also develops its own residential properties within Thailand and has its own real estate agency working with what they call ‘Sales Representatives’. These Sales Representatives are freelance agents or agents of other companies who wish to use the features of the platform for free and monetize in various ways. It is definitely an exciting company to watch.

TD THAILAND FULLY OPENS FOR TOURISTS

By Kanchan Nath

The Tourism Authority of Thailand (TAT) has stated that international travellers to Thailand are no longer required to show proof of vaccination or ATK test results, and a longer length of stay is on offer, signalling the completion of the kingdom's full reopening to international tourism. From last month through until 31 March, 2023, the period of stay in Thailand is extended to 45 days (from 30 days) for tourists from countries/territories entitled for visa exemption, and to 30 days (from 15 days) for those eligible for a Visa on Arrival (VOA). Yuthasak Supasorn, TAT Governor, said "Thailand has fully reopened to the world's tourists with the message, through the 'Visit Thailand Year 2022-2023: Amazing New Chapters' campaign, that our fascinating destination offers something for everyone under the 'From A-Z: Amazing Thailand Has It All' concept. We invite tourists to come and experience the existing and new tourism offerings in Thailand which, together with the kingdom's increasing move towards sustainable and responsible tourism, will make for a truly memorable holiday."

Thailand began a carefully planned gradual reopening to international tourism from 1 July, 2021, with the Phuket Sandbox, Samui Plus, and 7+7 Extension programmes. This was followed by a four-phase reopening timeline from October 2021 to January 2022 in which destinations throughout the country reopened to tourists. On 1 July, 2022, came the removal of the Thailand Pass registration scheme, and foreign nationals as of then only had to show proof of vaccination or a negative ATK test result within 72 hours of travel. Now, with the kingdom fully reopened, international visitor arrivals are on the rise, international events and local festivals are being held, and major international and regional airlines are resuming flights from countries around the world.

Thai Airways International (THAI) in its recently announced 2022-2023 winter schedule (30 October, 2022 – 25 March, 2023) is operating flights on 34 European, Australian, and Asian routes with increased frequencies on selected routes. This includes daily flights between Bangkok and London, Paris, Zurich, Frankfurt, Copenhagen, Sydney, Melbourne, Tokyo, Osaka, Fukuoka, Manila, Seoul, Taipei, Hong Kong, Singapore, Jakarta, Kuala Lumpur, New Delhi, Mumbai, Dhaka, and Karachi. The resumption of flights to Thailand from all over the world, together with the return to pre-pandemic entry requirements, and the extension of stay periods for tourists, have all come in time for the kingdom's high season which runs from October to March. As one of the world's favourite holiday destinations, Thailand is pleased to be welcoming tourists back.

TD QATAR TO CLOSE BORDERS, ONLY FOOTBALL FANS CAN ENTER

By Joe Cusmano

Between 1 November and 23 December, Qatar will close its borders to anyone not attending the World Cup. All land, sea, and air borders will be essentially closed to anybody who does not have a Hayya Card, the government-issued fa ID provided to everyone attending the Fifa World Cup events.

The event runs from 20 November to 18 December, and Hayya Card holders are allowed to stay in the country until 23 January 2023. Old Doha International Airport will reopen to relieve traffic congestion ahead of the FIFA World Cup.

Qatari nationals, residents, GCC citizens having a Qatari ID card, and anybody with a personal or work visa will be unaffected by the shutdown. However, anyone wanting to visit the nation for reasons other than the World Cup will be unable to enter.

FIFA has sold 2.45 million of the three million available tickets, with thousands of fans anticipated to arrive in mid-November. Qatar will face Ecuador in the World Cup opening on 20 November, while England will face Iran the following day. Although non-soccer fans will be denied entry, hundreds of thousands of people are expected in neighbouring cities such as Dubai, which is constructing fan zones to accommodate them.

CAMBODIA VISA RUNS ARE BACK!

In the past I had taken many of my customers on visa runs with a minibus but when COVID-19 hit, everything changed and borders were closed for a long time with no more daily border run crossings available. Now the border to Cambodia is open again for visa runs and other business trips.

Although at the moment it is still slow on the tourist side I decided to do private runs with only 3 people per car and it works well. It is comfortable, relaxed, fast, and not too tiring so you don't come back exhausted after the trip.

Our driver is a professional driver who speaks both English and German and I help with all the necessary paperwork. Customers can book to go on a daily run. We leave Pattaya at 7 am and return between 3.30 pm to 4.30 pm. We usually stop at McDonald's for lunch on the way back to Pattaya.

Exploring the incredible beauty of Phang Nga by traditional long-tail boat

By Kim Waddoup

Nothing can prepare you for the scale and magnificent scenery of Phang Nga. I have travelled extensively yet this is one of the most incredible scenes of nature's extraordinary works of art I have ever seen. Looking from the mainland over the mangroves and out across the bay there are incredibly shaped islands, each one unique in shape and size.

Formally a barrier reef during the Permian epoch, (298-252 million years ago) the formations are the result of geological movements and fractures. Wind, ocean currents and sea corrosion have all shaped these islands and the limestone karsts are still being continuously re-sculptured by the elements..

During our stay on Phuket, we were constantly hounded by touts for boat trips across the bay.. They sounded idyllic with high-speed boat, tour guide, lunch, snorkelling and sightseeing all included. However, we were looking for something more private and on our way to the viewpoint saw a simple sign for boat trips by a small, village pier.

Once comfortably on board a colourful little long-tail boat we made our way out through the dense mangrove channels, into Phang Nga bay. It was a wonderful day; the sun was shining and the cloud formations spectacular. The sea was calm, and our captain set a good pace. We were soon cruising past incredible formations, each different in size and shape, almost all well vegetated with the natural sea erosion at the base allowing the boat to pass underneath some of the overhangs. Erie limestone stalactites hang down in bizarre shapes and one hopes that they won't choose today to slip into the sea.

The scenes in Phang Nga bay were truly sensational and with just a few longtail boats adding a scenic touch as they made their individual ways amongst the islands. A well-seasoned guide then shoe-horned us into a very simple inflatable. Terrified of losing my phone,I made sure it stayed securely in a plastic bag in my pocket, so sadly no photos of this amazingly scenic part of the trip. Sitting on the floor if an inflatable is not the most comfortable at my age but I started to relax and understand the incredible natural beauty of this lagoon. We paddled serenely under the cliffs and through the mangroves.The tour lasted about one hour and we were soon back at our longtail.

One of the highlights of the Phang Nga trip was the fishing village of Koh Panyee, built almost entirely on stilts, the old town is delightful but newer areas appear to be occupied by large fish restaurants The village came to fame when local kids,inspired by the 1986 FIFA World Cup built a pitch from scraps of wood and fishing rafts. Now rebuilt, Panyee FC regularly train on this floating pitch and are one of the most successful soccer clubs in Southern Thailand.

Our delightful cruise continued through the endless beauty of Phang Nga. The water remained calm and only the wakes of the longtail boats broke the serenity as they ferried their occupants on their journeys of splendour. The final stop was at Ko Khao Phing Kan which has become famous as the James Bond island due to the role that it played in "The Man with the Golden Gun" and subsequently in Star Wars, Revenge of the Sith. The highly recognisable limestone karst of Ko Ta Pu (or Ko Tapu) lies about 40 metres from the island and is instantly recognisable. At 20 metres high with a diameter of just four metres at the base and eight at the top. It is quite precarious and the subject of thousands of selfies every day.

You will need to have kept the National Park Entry ticket that you purchased when you went canoeing and this is checked as to disembark. The first beach is rather lovely again with overhanging cliffs, there are a few steps and then the wonder of Ko Ta Pu is revealed! Whilst smaller than I had expected, it is an amazing site to see and naturally take some shots. There are sadly souvenir shops on the island and you can walk easily to the second beach at the rear.

All things must come to an end and we slowly left Phang Nga behind us and followed the hidden creeks through the Mangroves back to our community pier.

Responsible/sustainable tourism: It is challenging but we try to be responsible in the way we travel and support sustainable local business wherever possible. The majority of the long-tail boats in Phang Nga belong to fishermen who have a right to be in this area and their traditional styled boats do add a feature to any scene. Sadly, as tourism returns these islands will once again be filled to their maximum and nature will suffer. However, we do all want to see the sights!

BARRY UPTON

25 YEAR ANNIVERSARY FOR 5,6,7,8

On November 10th 1997, a single was released by STEPS, the band I had created, called 5,6,7,8. I wrote it to be a techno/country style pop line dancing anthem. Jive records already had the Backstreet Boys and Britney Spears on their roster, so it should have been no surprise (although it still was to me) when my song entered the U.K. charts and stayed there for 4 months. It also climbed charts all over the world, including No. 1 in Australia and was included on a plethora of party compilation albums worldwide.

It then was used in films, tv shows and ads, becoming a party classic and would be for the next 25 years. STEPS are still together and a couple of months ago released a 'Platinum' album with all their hits on, soaring immediately to No. 1 in the U.K. charts.

So, I thought that maybe I should mark this auspicious occasion by re-releasing my song on November 10th 2022, but with an updated version.

Earlier this year, I was attending the salsa live band nights at Sandbar in Dongtan Beach, Pattaya and got inspired to do a Latino style recording of 5,6,7,8 (note - that's the way all choreographed dances are counted in).

I have now completed the track(s) ready for release and an accompanying video. '5,6,7,8 Tropicale' now has a new appropriate chorus lyric -

*My Tropicale baby is driving me crazy
Like a Mana from Havana, my Latino date.

*My prayers have all been answered (now)
Wanna join the queue, Two Step with you, 5,6,7,8.*

I recruited the very talented singers from Philippine band 'Power Jam' to accompany me on the vocals. They jumped at the opportunity as this song has been very popular in their country for so many years and is now, I hear, part of the national school curriculum because of the dance that goes with it. Also, talented local Thai singer Nancy also contributed.

My friend, musician Paul Rosenberg, added some latin percussion and brass instruments while I did the rest. Now, all I had to do was to produce a music video to go with it.

For this, I asked DJ Ona who runs salsa nights all over Pattaya to put a dance group together for me with a choreographed section. We ended up with 6 dancers, enthusiastically enjoying being filmed performing at Dongtan Beach in my newly designed cropped t shirts.

The next day, with the camera assistance of another friend, Daniel Gold and his wife, we filmed myself together with those 'Power Jam' singers plus a brass section clip on the beach to the amusement of many sunbathers there.

Finally, I was filmed playing the additional guitar parts and it was a wrap!

I have a friend in Havana, Cuba, and he sent me some authentic footage of his Latino dancers

Now that I've finished editing the video and sent the track to my U.K. distribution label, it is ready for release worldwide. The radio edit plus the special elongated dance versions are all available to download at all good facilities such as Amazon, iTunes, etc..

From November 10th, special video edits are available on my YouTube channel, FAB BAZ MUSIC TV. Big thanks go out to all who participated in this exciting project and especially the radio/video DJs and channels who help to promote my song.

Now ... it's time to Beguine so count it in 5,6,7,8.

Hacks to Make Your Moving Day Easier

After the death of a loved one and divorce moving home is ranked no 3 of the most stressful life events. Perhaps this has something to do with the fact that your whole life and its belongings are in limbo for a while. Or because it is unsettling not to have all elements of your home under your control. Hopefully with some of these easy moving hacks we can take a little pain out of the process..

Pack kitchen items carefully

There are many fiddly bits to consider when packing up a kitchen so give yourself plenty of advanced time. Also ensure you don't arrive with broken plates by putting paper or paper towels between them and packing them vertically as they're less likely to break than when stacked horizontally. Cups and bowls can go inside one another, with paper in between, and knives should be wrapped in a dish towel and placed on their side — never facing up.

Last out First in Basket

If you are giving yourself the day before to pack your kitchen then it's a good idea to have disposable plates, cups, and cutlery for your last meal in your old home and the first in your new place. You may be too tired after you move to unpack everything for the kitchen so these items will also prove useful for the first meal in your new home or you can just order a pizza takeaway from Marco's! You should also consider adding essentials such as nightclothes, toothbrushes and toiletries plus a change of clothes for the next day. A kettle, tea, milk, sugar and a toaster may also be good to include in your basket.

Use Toilet Rolls

Use toilet paper tubes to keep wires and cables organised. They are the perfect size and keep all your cords from getting tangled up in the boxes.

Seal Bottles of Liquids and Toiletries

Put plastic wrap under the lid of bottles and toiletries to keep them from spilling during the move

Hacks for packing clothes.

Don't take clothes off their hangers. Instead, move them in bunches covered by plastic rubbish bags whilst still on the hanger and roll smaller items of clothes rather than folding them to save space and stop creasing. They can then also go in large outdoor garbage bags along with items such as towels, linens, bedding, and stuffed children's toys.

Use clothing and towels as padding

Newspapers and bubble wrap have their place, but using your own items as padding is a good hack. After all you have to pack clothing, towels, bedding, anyway, so you might as well put them to good use. Wrap your T-shirts around dishware and ornaments and cover large items with bedding to prevent them from getting scratched.

If you are packing up and moving yourself with cardboard boxes remember not to make them too heavy. You can also cut triangles into boxes about 1/3 of the way down to create handles for easy carrying. Don't leave empty spaces in the boxes but fill them with clothing, towels, or packing paper for ease of stacking.

Use up and prepare before you go

Cut back on as much clutter as possible and do a purge of unused or unnecessary items. You'll have less to pack, less to move, and less to unpack. Use up as much food, cleaning stuff and toiletries as you can before you go so that you can buy new when you arrive at your new address. Also don't bother taking clothes or items you really don't want or need. Instead have a good sort through and see if there's anything you want to donate to charities like the Mercy Centre, Take Care Kids or Hand to Hand who will be happy to receive your donations.

Start early

Don't wait until the last minute to get started. As soon as you know that you will be looking for a new home, you should start reviewing your stuff. In a perfect world, you have at least a month's notice before you move, so start decluttering, cleaning, organising, and packing as soon as you can. The best way to fit this in is to do it a little at a time and start with areas you use the least. Getting started early will make you feel like you've made some progress and motivate you to tackle more.

Label Your Boxes

It seems obvious but especially if you are getting help with your move don't forget to label the boxes. Valuable information such as the room it belongs in as well as marking if the contents is fragile is extremely useful.

LG MoodUp Refrigerator

If you've spent a fortune on fitting a new Kitchen then adding a Refrigerator that offers mood lighting will add something special to your design. If you get bored with the look you can change your mood. There are a choice of 22 light colours available on the upper LED door panel and 19 colours for the lower all controllable from the mobile app. If you leave the fridge door open it will start to blink repeatedly as a warning. There is a built-in Bluetooth speaker and the fridge will vibrate along with the music, especially great for those who spend all their time in the kitchen at parties.

Swiss Rig Bresson MK 093

Just about everyone you meet these days is a creator on one or more social media platforms, so this handy little mobile add-on might help you with your content. Acting like a Swiss Army Knife for creators the Bresson MK 093 has two key functions. The first is a 5-axis thumbstick that lets you precisely control the zoom inside your dedicated app. Audio is the second with a short full range condenser mic with its high-end cable and studio-grade headphone jack. The red block isn't just a grip but contains a built-in battery pack and securely fits onto your mobile with a magnetic mount.

LG OLED Flex

If like me you like PC gaming and also watching the TV then an all-in-one TV/Monitor hybrid will be better than having two screens. This one can switch between being a curved and flat panel. If you are gaming then its G-Sync or Freesync capabilities will be compatible with whatever GPU you have. Things will look great at 4k 120-Hz and a smooth frame rate as well. If you are into competitive gaming then you can adjust the screen size to increase your frame rate by getting a 27-inch window inside the 42-inch panel if you need it. I think this feature is great because using a TV size screen as a monitor in the past has been just too big. When it's time to watch a movie change it back to full screen and even adjust the curve to suit your taste.
